Leigh's Response to Growing Humanitarian Disaster in Afghanistan

All Canadians have been shocked at the pictures and TV images we have seen of Afghanistan's ongoing collapse – a place where many brave Canadian service personnel, and those of our allies, gave their lives. Leigh, like all Canadians, is worried about the safety of all the remaining Canadians and our Afghan allies, who provided courageous assistance during Canada's mission. While it is understandable that the immediate collapse of the Afghan government took many by surprise, it has become clear that our federal government had developed no plan in the case of a Taliban resurgence, which all experts predicted. Our government's ongoing unpreparedness for this and every other recent crisis has become sadly obvious. Now is the time for change!
